DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

1. Applicant's submission of an IDS on 3/02/01 is acknowledged and has been fully considered as indicated by the signed/initialed PTO-1449 included with this Office Action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

2. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 17-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

The basis of this rejection is set forth in a two-prong test of:

- (1) whether the invention is with the technological arts; and
- (2) whether the invention produces a useful, concrete, and tangible result.

For a claimed invention to be statutory, the claimed invention must be within the technological arts. Mere ideas in the abstract (i.e., abstract idea, law of nature, natural phenomena) that do not apply, use, or advance the technological arts fail to promote the "progress of science and the useful arts" (i.e., the physical sciences as opposed to the social sciences) and therefore are found to be non-statutory subject matter. For a process, the recited process must somehow apply, involve, use, or advance the technological arts.

In the present case, claim 17 fails to advance the technological arts by reciting the technology needed to carry out the claimed process. The steps of claim 17 can be carried out manually or by hand. The examiner recommends adding a limitation to the body of the claim that states that the process is carried out by a computer or on a computer network.

Art Unit: 3627

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Applicant's admitted prior art as set forth in Figure 1 (hereinafter "Admitted Prior Art") in view of U.S. Patent Publication No. 2002/0073013 A1 (Haddad)

The Admitted Prior Art discloses a method for distributing file content via one or more cache providers (30, 35, 40), wherein content providers directly purchase cache resources from said cache providers. Additionally, the Admitted Prior Art discloses redirecting download requests that were initially directed to a content provider, such that the requests will be redirected to at least one contracted cache provider.

The Admitted Prior Art fails to disclose content providers purchasing cache from a third-party market entity allowing at two or more distinct cache providers to collectively provide for servicing of download requests, wherein a fee is charged by said cache providers based on a downloaded bandwidth.

Art Unit: 3627

Haddad teaches trading bandwidth in an open exchange, wherein allowing multiple cache providers to service the needs of content provider in multiple desired locations (see page 2, paragraph 017)

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the Admitted Prior Art with bandwidth exchange market as taught by Haddad, because an open exchange will provide lowest cost and best service benefits for the participants.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to Applicant's disclosure.

Huttenlocher et al. is cited of interest for disclosing a system for trading commodities including bandwidth.

Fortman et al. is cited of interest for disclosing an exchange that allows buyers to purchase bandwidth.

Morris is cited of interest for disclosing a system that provides an exchange for trading bandwidth.

Sibley, Jr. is cited of interest for disclosing an international commodity trade exchange.
